China Futuristic Financial Summit, previously known as China International Banking Conference, is an annual forum hosted by The Asian Banker since 2002 in Beijing and has become one of the most recognized and respected banking conferences in China. It provides a platform for financial institutions, regulators, government bodies, financial technology companies as well as service providers to share information on the latest trends in the industry and regulatory best practices. The theme of this year's Summit, “Focusing on Sustainability, Creating a New Future”, focused on improving operational efficiency and sustainability of the banking industry in China.

The event was also highlighted by speeches from Dr. Richard Koo, Chief Economist at the Nomura Research Institute, Dr. Steven Barnett, IMF Division Chief Asia Pacific, and Dr. Zong Liang, Chief Researcher at Bank of China.
